TRUST IN TWO HORSE CARTS

So Alderman Declares in Discussing Or-$5 to $6 a Day.

who favored the revision of the ordinance regulating the compensation of the owners of teams of horses employed by the city. The present price is $5 per day and in compliance with a petition from Henry Clampett and others the Ordinance committee recommended that the price be made $5 per day because of the advanced price in the cost of hay, straw and grain.

The Alderman said he opposed the increase because the board had gone over the entire matter a year ago and had decided that $5 was enough for two horse carts, but that the price for one horse carts should be $3.50. He declared that a few men own all of the double carts in the city and it was a kind of a trust which controlled the city work. He felt certain that if he was director of public works and he advertised for two horse teams he would have Bank street filled with carts in the morning. He declared that Mr. A. J. He thought it was inconsistent. "What is the value of the man?" he seked inconsistent. "What is the value of the man?" he asked.

Alderman Gould said that in drawing the ordinance the committee had the counsel of Alderman Mahoney who was an authority on horses, and he had stated there would be less than $2 profit in the $6 per day charge be-cause of the cost of maintaining horses at the present time.

Alderman McMurray voted alone against the ordinance because he believed that more work should be given to the men with the one horse carts, and that an increase of the number of two horse carts owned by a few people should not be encouraged.

As a result the chairman of the committee and Alderman Gould pleaded almost tearfully with the aldermen last night to put through a healing resolution. This was done, The error consisted in not sending the matter originally to the Board of Appraisal of Benefits and Damages, which has the duty of ascertaining, in such cases, if any are benefitted, or any injured by the change.

As the city of Bridgeport is the only person injured and the New Haven Pailroad is largely benefitted it is not likely that the work of the board of appraisal will be more than a formal nearing.

The resolution was opposed by Alderman McMurray, who renewed his denunciation of the harbor grab. The resolution was finally adopted by a vote of 16 to 1, most of the aldermen believing that it was not worth while to spend time upon a matter in which the city was already substan-
